

Activity Participation and Risk Acknowledgement

This document is made between the Organiser and the Participant identified in the Parties section. It records the planned activity and acknowledges information about risks. It does not replace safety instructions, supervision, insurance, or any consent required by law.

1. Activity

The activity is _____, scheduled for _____ (the "Activity"). Additional information about the meeting place, equipment, route, leader, and practical arrangements should be provided to participants separately or in the completed Details section before participation.

2. Risks explained

The Organiser has identified the following significant risks associated with the Activity: _____.

Outdoor, recreational, or physical activities may involve conditions that change during participation. The Organiser must give a fair, understandable explanation of material risks reasonably known to it, along with any required safety instructions, qualifications, and protective equipment. The Participant should ask questions if any risk or instruction is unclear.

3. Participant acknowledgement

By signing, the Participant confirms having an opportunity to read the stated risks, ask reasonable questions, and receive essential safety information before joining. The Participant understands that reasonable care cannot eliminate every inherent risk of an activity and agrees to follow lawful safety instructions and communicate concerns promptly.

This acknowledgement is not a declaration that the Participant assumes responsibility for the Organiser's negligence, defective equipment, inadequate supervision, or any other responsibility that the law does not permit the Organiser to exclude. It is not a promise that the Participant is medically fit or that participation is risk-free.

4. Safety and personal responsibility

The Participant agrees to use supplied equipment correctly, follow applicable rules, avoid participation when impaired, and alert the Organiser to an immediate hazard. The Organiser must provide legally required supervision, safety measures, and emergency procedures and must not knowingly direct participants into avoidable unsafe conditions.

If the Participant feels unable to proceed safely, the Participant should inform the Organiser. Any consequences for withdrawal, refunds, or missed participation remain subject to the terms separately agreed and applicable law.

5. Emergencies and personal information

In an emergency, the Organiser may seek professional assistance and take proportionate steps necessary to protect safety, subject to applicable law. This document does not give unlimited consent to medical procedures or to sharing personal health information. Any collection or use of emergency-contact or medical information requires an appropriate lawful basis and clear notice.

6. Minors and special activities

A minor's participation may require a parent or guardian's consent and further safeguards. The Participant form alone may be insufficient for a minor or an activity subject to special rules. The Organiser must check age, parental consent, licensing, and any activity-specific requirements before use.

7. Legal effect

The document records risk information and acknowledgements only. It does not waive claims or limit any rights or liabilities that cannot legally be waived. Whether any acknowledgement has legal effect depends on the applicable law.

and the circumstances. The completed Details and Parties sections form part of the record.
