

Event Equipment Rental Agreement

This Agreement is made between the Lessor and the Renter identified in the Parties section.

1. Equipment supplied

The Lessor rents _____ (the "Equipment") for temporary event use. The description of individual units, quantities, accessories, technical requirements, and condition may be entered in the Details section or attached Items and photographs. The Parties should confirm exactly what will be delivered and whether installation, operation, and collection are included.

2. Period and price

The rental period is _____. The rental fee is _____. The Parties should record delivery and collection arrangements, access requirements, an event date, deposit, cleaning arrangements, and any agreed ancillary services before handover. Unspecified services are not assumed to be included in the rental fee.

3. Delivery, setup, and safe operation

The Parties shall identify who is responsible for transport, unloading, assembly, cabling, supervision, dismantling, and return. The Lessor must supply equipment suitable for its agreed use and provide relevant technical or safety instructions. The Renter must ensure that the event site is suitable for the Equipment, including adequate access, stable surfaces, electrical supply, weather protection, and legally required permits where applicable.

Electrical, rigging, lifting, structural, gas, pyrotechnic, or other hazardous installations may require competent personnel and separate professional agreements. Signing this rental document does not certify any installation as safe or grant permission to operate regulated equipment.

4. Use, capacity, and supervision

The Equipment must be used only as intended and within its load, power, capacity, and environmental ratings. Guests and third parties must not alter structural supports, bypass guards, overload circuits, or operate technical equipment without suitable authorisation. The Renter must promptly stop use and notify the Lessor if unsafe conditions arise.

The Parties shall follow applicable venue, fire, electrical, occupational safety, and public event requirements. The allocation of responsibilities under this Agreement does not remove duties imposed directly by law.

5. Damage, loss, and interruption

The Renter must take reasonable care of the Equipment and safeguard it against foreseeable theft or damage. Any loss, failure, or incident should be reported promptly with a description and available evidence. Ordinary wear and defects that existed at handover are not damage attributable to the Renter.

When equipment fails without fault by the Renter, the Parties shall cooperate on a reasonable remedy under applicable law. The Lessor does not guarantee the event's commercial success, but cannot exclude obligations or liability that the law makes mandatory.

6. Collection and return

At the agreed time, the Equipment must be accessible for collection or returned with all components. The Parties should inspect it and record missing parts or damage. Additional labour, cleaning, replacement, or late-return charges require a lawful basis and must be reasonable. Deposits are accounted for and returned subject to any justified deductions.

7. Changes and cancellation

Material changes to equipment quantities, event location, site conditions, or dates require the Parties' agreement. Cancellation, delay, and refund rights follow applicable law and any clear, lawful terms recorded between the Parties; this document does not create an automatic non-refundable booking charge.

8. Entire rental record

The completed Details, Parties, Items, and photograph appendices form part of this Agreement. Mandatory consumer and safety laws prevail over inconsistent clauses.
